

Luke Girard

Luke is currently a senior platform and security architect in the Mobile Division of Intel Labs. During his career at Intel, he has worked to improve mobile PC platform security, was a designer and micro-architect of three generations of microprocessors, and authored several CPU and security related patents. Before working for Intel, he was a cryptographic and communications specialist in the U.S. Navy.